Brussels – Chocolate Capital of the World

Brussels is not (1).... the capital of Belgium and the center of the European Union but, (2) most people don't know, the chocolate capital of the world. Ever since the Belgian Jean Neuhaus created the first praline a hundred years (3) , Belgium has been home of the chocolate business and many chocolate lovers claim that the (4) chocolate in the world comes from Belgium.

Europe's history of chocolate goes back to the 16th century when Spanish explorers (5) cocoa beans home from Mexico. At that time cocoa beans were traded and served (6) ... a form of money. When the Belgian king Leopold II occupied Congo and made it a Belgian colony thousands of tons of cocoa were shipped home. This encouraged the growth of the chocolate (7)

Belgium produces 170.000 tons of chocolate a year, sold in over 2000 shops (8) ... throughout the country. Every Belgian consumes (9) ... 11 kg of chocolate a year.

Of the six million tourists who visit Brussels every year, only few of them leave the city without a box of pralines. The city offers them special chocolate (10) ..., where they learn about the history of chocolate, see how pralines are made and taste them in the best shops of the city. Most tours start at the Museum of Cocoa and Chocolate.

Leggi il seguente dialogo tra Ann e Julie.

Ann: Hi Julie! How are you? I haven't seen you for ages!
 Julie: I'm fine thanks! I've just come back from a short holiday in Paris with my husband.
 Ann: That sounds great! When did you go?
 Julie: Last weekend, we flew there on Friday morning, spent two days in a nice hotel right in the heart of Paris and came back on Sunday night.
 Ann: You lucky thing! A holiday in Paris, in spring, the best season to see Paris.... It's the dream of my life. Did you spend a lot of money?
 Julie: Well, you know, my husband works for a Paris-based company and he got a free weekend as a special reward for his hard work! The company paid for everything!
 Ann: Fantastic! Tell me, what's Paris like? What did you see?
 Julie: Well, Paris is fascinating and I really enjoyed all the things we saw: the Louvre, Notre-Dame Cathedral, the Latin Quarter, the Royal Palace of Versailles... Anyway, the thing I liked best was a cruise on the River Seine, you know, on those famous boats, the 'Bateaux Mouches'. The view from the river was fantastic!
 Ann: And the famous French food?
 Julie: Delicious! There are very nice restaurants where you can eat all kinds of typical French dishes! You really have to go there one day!
 Ann: Maybe next summer.... I could ask my friend Marie. She is from Paris, so maybe she could help me find cheap accommodation!
 Julie: Good idea! Bye Ann!
 Ann: Bye Julie, see you soon!
